

THE CLAIM

Almost half of marketers cannot measure whether AI mentions them.

45% admit they cannot properly track visibility in AI answers, and only 9% claim to measure every metric that matters.

CANNOT PROPERLY MEASURE AI VISIBILITY	45%
MEASURE EVERY KEY METRIC	9%
SAY COMPETITORS ARE MENTIONED MORE	37%

Semrush AI Visibility Index 2026, 481 marketers surveyed, 126 million US prompts, 22 industries.

02 / THE STAKES

Losing visibility is invisible in your dashboard.

You cannot see the answer that stopped naming you, so the decline arrives as a flat month with no explanation.

04 / WHY IT IS HARD

There is no ranking report for a conversation.

STEP 01

The answer changes per user and per session

STEP 02

There is no fixed position to track

STEP 03

Mentions arrive with no referral and no keyword

INTEGRATED SEO AND AI TEAMS REPORTING MORE TRAFFIC AND LEADS	81%
--	-----

TEAMS RUNNING THEM SEPARATELY	36%
-------------------------------	-----

Semrush AI Visibility Index 2026. Teams that merged the two functions report materially better results.

05 / THE TWIST

Merging SEO and AI work changes the outcome.

81%

of marketers with integrated SEO and AI teams report more traffic and leads, against 36% of those working separately.

Semrush AI Visibility Index 2026, 481 marketers across 22 industries.

06 / WHAT TO DO

Build the tracking before the report.

01 Fix a prompt set and re-run it monthly

Take the twenty questions your buyers actually ask, run them every month, and record who gets named.

02 Track citations, not sessions

Most AI mentions arrive with no click at all. If you only count sessions, this channel reads as zero.

03 Join the two teams

81% of integrated teams report better traffic and leads. The measurement problem is usually an ownership problem.

THE TAKEAWAY

Write down the twenty questions your buyers ask.

Run them today. Whatever gets named is the market, whether or not it matches your keyword list.

STEP ONE	list the twenty questions
STEP TWO	re-run them on the same date each month
FOLLOW	for the measurement template
